CITY TRANSFORMATION

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION

攝影展覽

Kowloon East has witnessed Hong Kong's evolution from an industrial city to an international metropolis: Kai Tak Airport saw sentimental goodbyes during the migration wave and countless factory workers made their humble contributions to our city's developments.

Today, the area evolves into a CBD2 comprising residential and corporate skyscrapers, new and repurposed alike, alongside buzzing art and cultural hubs, all thanks to the government's "Energizing Kowloon East" initiative. Kowloon East has flourished into an urban oasis where a number of multinational corporations, small and medium enterprises, artists and creative industries proudly call home. For Hong Kongers young and old, Kowloon East continues to hold an irreplaceable sentimental value.

Wheelock Properties has invited photographers to chronicle the magnificent change in the "City Transformation Photo Competition". The winning works showcase here alongside old photo collections that document Kowloon East's renewal and artworks created by The Wharf Young Art Ambassadors.
